About Alkoomi:

Family run and operated vineyard in Frankland River, Western Australia. The original 1220 hectare property was purchased by Sandy's grandparents, Vic and Netta Lange, in 1946 and initially operated as a mixed grain and livestock farm. It was grandma Netta who chose the name "Alkoomi" for their rugged property, on land over two million years old – a local Aboriginal word meaning "a place we chose".

Alkoomi's logo is the unique and distinctively Australian grass tree, Xanthorrhoea preissii, which flourishes on the property.
