

ALKOOMI

Rosé

Tasting Notes:

Pretty salmon hue, raspberries and pomegranate. Pleasant red fruits meshing well with a lemony baseline of acidity.

Production Notes:

Merlot (52%), Petit Verdot (22%), Grenache (18%), Malbec (8%)

Estate grown fruit harvest in the early morning. All stainless steel ferment to preserve fruit freshness and delicacy

About Alkoomi:

Family run and operated vineyard in Frankland River, Western Australia. The original 1220 hectare property was purchased by Sandy's grandparents, Vic and Netta Lange, in 1946 and initially operated as a mixed grain and livestock farm. It was grandma Netta who chose the name "Alkoomi" for their rugged property, on land over two million years old – a local Aboriginal word meaning "a place we chose".

Cellaring:

Enjoy now.

Alkoomi's logo is the unique and distinctively Australian grass tree, Xanthorrhoea preissii, which flourishes on the property.

Frankland River Facts:

- Frankland River is home to eight wineries.
- The region has a cool, Mediterranean climate and a long warm growing season.
- Frankland River's remote location makes it an outstanding region to find value-for-money high quality wines.
